In yet another shocking example of radical left ideology infiltrating public schools, a “non-binary” Baltimore high school English teacher has come under intense fire for sharing explicit kink-related content on social media, including videos where he role-plays as a pregnant woman with enormous prosthetic breasts.

James Roman Stilipec, 50, who goes by “Jay Aress” online and teaches ninth-grade students at Reach! Partnership School, has been blasted by parents and conservative groups for flaunting his fetishes publicly, raising serious questions about his fitness to be around impressionable teens.

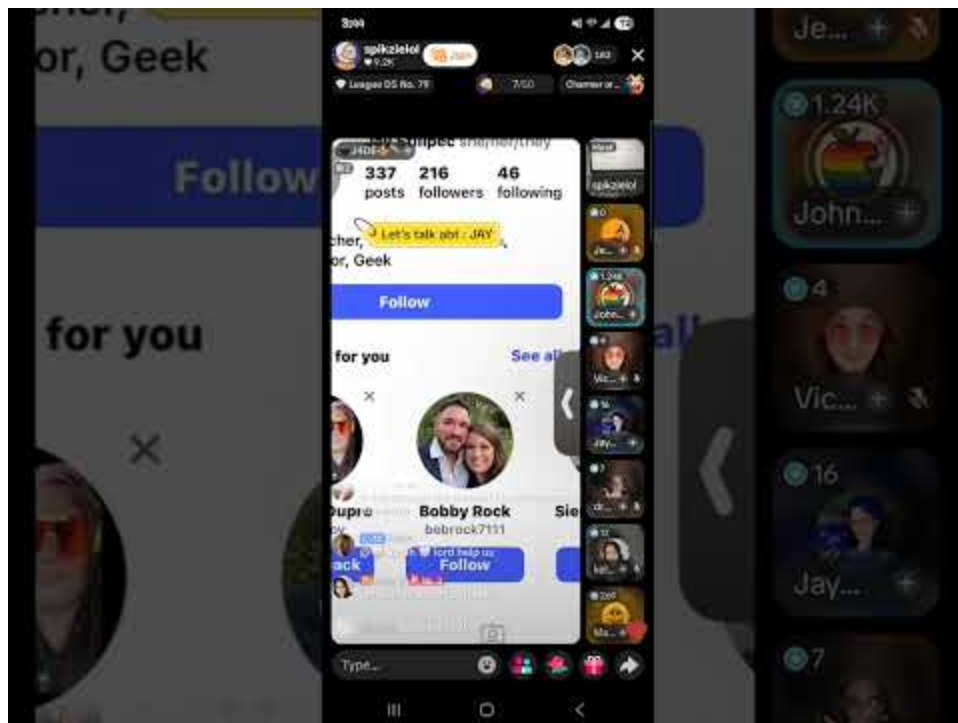

Stilipec, a former U.S. Navy veteran with 36DDD breast implants he proudly calls his “hooters,” regularly posts bizarre videos on platforms like TikTok, Instagram, X, and YouTube, which were uncovered by Reduxx.

In one compilation shared by outraged citizens, he dons a fake pregnancy belly and cradles it tenderly, using hashtags like “#jayandthetwins.”

Another clip shows him strutting with a $400 36M breastplate prosthetic, similar to the infamous Canadian teacher Kayla Lemieux who wore oversized fake boobs in class, amplifying his already enhanced chest for what appears to be fetishistic role-play as a woman.

While Stilipec doesn't seem to wear the prosthetics in school, one profile photo shows him in a low-cut shirt exposing cleavage next to a classroom bulletin board, blurring the lines between his personal kinks and professional life.

Outraged TikTok users confronted him in a heated video conference, accusing him of “roping in the public to participate in their fetish”—a charge he denied—while demanding he be fired to protect students.

“This is not appropriate for someone educating our children,” one participant fumed.

Stilipec's online presence goes even darker. His YouTube channel features him gaming in cleavage-revealing outfits, and he's authored extreme BDSM fantasy novels like “Total Slave,” “Master Mark,” and “Angel's Continuing Enslavement” under his alias, the New York Post reports.

Formerly married to a woman, Stilipec has discussed brief hormonal therapy in a YouTube video, but no said he does not want additional surgery or treatments.

Neither the school, Baltimore City Public Schools, nor the PTA has responded to the uproar, leaving parents furious about the lack of oversight in taxpayer-funded education.

Most of Stilipec's social media channels, including his Instagram and TikTok, have now been made private, but his Facebook remains public.
